MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

The Balasore Social Service Society is nearing a landmark moment in its existence as this social arm of the Catholic Diocese of Balasore is going through its silver Jubilee this year. It is a moment of pride for me and all associated with this splendid organisation, as we witness the completion of its 25 years. I am extremely happy, proud and privileged to present before you the Annual Report 2016-2017 of this organisation, which I humbly acknowledge, was built, nurtured and sustained by numerous people down its history. The fruits we cherish today are the results of hard work, dedication and vision they demonstrated.

BSSS is an organisation for the people. Its topmost priority is the wellbeing of the people, especially those who are not in a position to look after themselves: the poor, helpless and the underprivileged. At the times when intolerance, petty self-interest and lack of love and concern for fellow human beings seem to be dictating conditions of human relationships, BSSS stands strong and reaches out to most deserving irrespective of caste, religion or race. This is a value that the Catholic Church upholds, inspired by Lord Jesus' eternal words, 'Love your neighbour as yourself' (Mathew 22:39).

Love, compassion and concern for fellow human beings are ideals that are never outdated. Inspired by these ideals BSSS, reached out to more and more people, delivering timely support in the most effective manner. This is what makes the organisation, relevant through its journey of 25 years.

I thank and appreciate the efforts of all those who has been a part of this journey. I thank the Director of BSSS, Fr. Jojo CV for consolidating the gains of the predecessors and steering the organisation forward by means of more professional approach in its works and binding the team members. Fr. Lijo Nirappel has been an excellent support as the Assistant Director.

I am grateful to our supporters, both in India and abroad, for placing your confidence on BSSS' ability to bring about meaningful change in the lives of the poorest of people. I am indebted to the staff of the organisation for their hard work and team spirit.

Finally, I thank the Lord for guiding the organisation to its present glory. I pray and wish that He will continue to shower His grace upon us in the days to come.

Rt. Rev. Dr. Simon Kaipuram
Bishop of Balasore

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Catholic Church has been playing a vital role in the social development sector for the up-liftment of the poor and downtrodden. Diocese of Balasore is not different from this role. It has well understood its mandate and taken up this role very seriously through her development wing known as Balasore Social Service Society (BSSS).

The role of each and every person working in our organization as agents of development and change is given utmost importance. They have proved to be reliable and innovative solution providers especially, in the last mile situations. Each and every one of us wants to see considerable level of change in the direction of positive development which is integrated and sustainable and that too in the unreachable vicinity. Even though we are not able to provide all the details of our endeavors, a summary of all important initiatives are documented in this edition of Annual Report (2016 - 2017).

We are at the threshold of Jubilee Year (25 years as an Official Organization) of BSSS. We are getting more and more organized by introducing new policies and systems for the sustainability of the organization. The opportunities to showcase our initiatives in the national and international arena is always well accepted due to which the visibility of BSSS has increased as a whole. We got the opportunity to be part of different panel discussions, international projects and mass awareness programmes conducted and implemented by reputed national and international organizations. The strategic plan of BSSS clearly mention that we concentrate in four sectors like Education, Health, Disaster Risk Reduction and Livelihood. We are striving to achieve this in an integrated approach. Thus we have program for farmers on better cultivation practices, income generation schemes for SHG mothers, awareness program for maintaining better health and preparedness program to reduce the risks involved during various disasters.

We are grateful to God Almighty for sparing us in the last two consecutive years from natural disasters. As we all know, the natural calamities like flood and drought usually take the development process backward. As we were blessed with rather good and conducive weather, our target areas benefited from a good crop. This raised the level of confidence and faith of people in our initiatives.

There are many who are instrumental for the existence of this organization, whose support and guidance becomes an inspiration for us to reach to the last mile. I would like to place my heartfelt gratitude to Rt. Rev. Dr. Simon Kaipuram CM, the president of BSSS and honorable members of Governing body for their never-ending care and guidance. I am indebted to all the funding agencies both Indian and overseas, different Govt. departments and resource agencies, well-wishers and other like-minded agencies for partnering with us for a greater humanitarian cause. The staff of BSSS is an integral part of this family. Their commitment and dedication is well appreciated and acknowledged. The most important stakeholders of this organization is the poor and the marginalized, whose development is the mandate of this organization. I whole heartedly thank them for their cooperation and enthusiasm to develop. May BSSS remain as a source of inspiration for all in the social development sector.

Fr. Jojo C. V.
Director, BSSS

MESSAGE FROM THE ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

It is with immense joy and great satisfaction that I look back at the progressive journey of BSSS. As this journey of social commitment embarks its silver page, the innovative measures taken towards the sustainability of the organisation and the ever radiating smiles of those whom we serve are indeed worth savoring. 25 years of selfless service to the most needy and the marginalized across four districts of Balasore Diocese not only gives us a sense of accomplishment but also a firm belief and reinforcement in the relevance and purpose of our existence. It is my honour and privilege to be associate with and support the vibrant team of BSSS headed by Fr. Jojo C.V, in making tangible changes in the lives of the poor famers, women and schools drop outs. The success of BSSS is measured by the changes that are brought into the lives of the most deserved, helping them to lead a dignified life. It is not just improving their social and economic life but an attitudinal change and positive outlook towards life that we aimed at.

The year 2016-17 in fact was a significant year for BSSS in developing and contributing to the core areas of agriculture and livelihood. More than 5,000 farmers were introduced to resilient paddy seeds in the flood/drought vulnerable areas by the support of the esteemed agencies like IRRI, Caritas France, FdnF and Manos Unidas. They were formed into different groups with adequate farming equipments, ensuring continuous training in modern and improved agricultural practices. Integrated farming system with special focus towards organic cultivation brought about a lot of changes in the lives of the farmers in the target area. Women were given different off-farm and non-farm trainings through federations and SHGs to help them stand on their feet and to be self-sufficient. Through the 'no-free' policy, while BSSS tried to create sustainability of the project activities by enabling the beneficiaries to generate fund for themselves, keen interest was also given to facilitate change in the basic attitude of the people towards NGOs and service organisations. In different parts of our operational areas, more than 200 weaker and drop out children are being regularly catered to good education enabling them to be in the main stream with other children, through the bridge-up centres. People vulnerable to the nature's fury as well, are being prepared to cope up with the situations of flood, drought and other natural calamities.

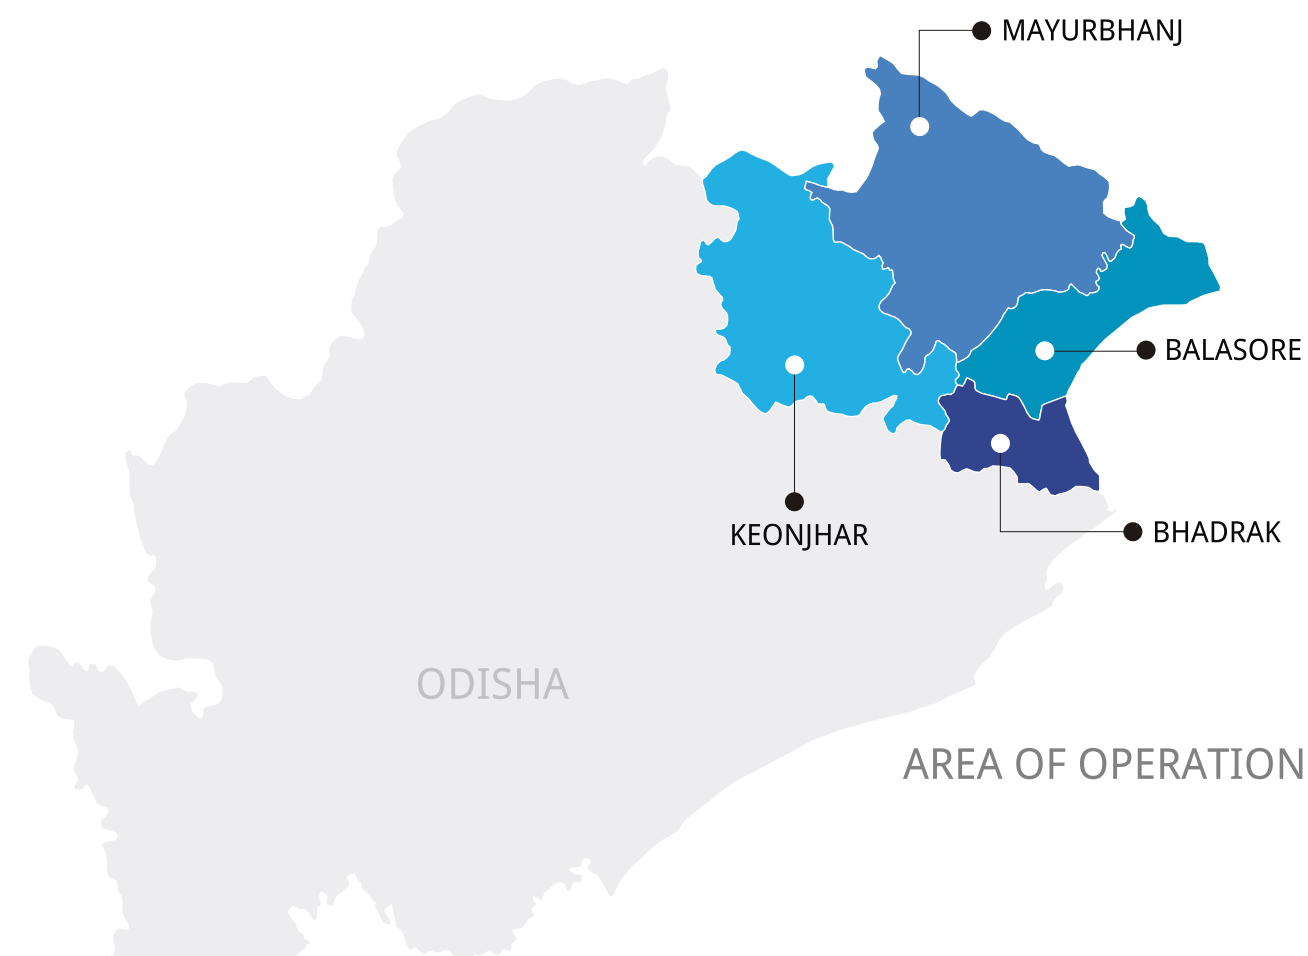

Counting all our blessings and accomplishments with great sense of fulfillment and gratitude to God Almighty, I would like to acknowledge the great support of our donor agencies and I value and appreciate them for their great concern for the humanity. I also appreciate BSSS staff for their genuine commitment and readiness to venture into the cause of our people in need, untouched by the ugly realities of cast, colour or religion. With such dedicated people around, I am sure that BSSS will continue to grow, bringing more and more smiles to thousands around.

Fr. Lijo Nirappel

Exploring The Potential Complementarities Of Abiotic Stress-tolerant Cultivars And Weather Index Insurance:
Evidence On Farmers' Drought Risk Management Strategies From Odisha

The project is implemented in 6 blocks of Balasore, Bhadrak and Mayurbhanj districts, covering 111 villages in 69 panchayats.

Supported by

The broad aim of this study is to explore the possible complementarities between drought tolerant cultivars and weather index insurance. While these two risk management tools can be conceptualised as complements, it is possible that farmers - intended customers of both products - might view them more like substitutes rather than complements.

MAJOR ACHIEVEMENTS

Training have been conducted for 17 Enumerators on farmers' baseline survey. During the project period Sahabhangi paddy (drought resistant) and drought insurance was sold in 74 villages. Besides rain gauge machines were installed in Khaira, Oupada, Kaptipada, Thakurmunda, Banta and Agarpada blocks.
